General Parents' evening and starting interviews

Last Tuesday night was the parent night. Thanks to all the parents who came. Glad to hear that this evening was appreciated and felt very important. Too bad that many parents did not attend, because a lot of important information was shared about what your child will learn this year and how you as a parent can support your child.

Next week are the start talks. That is really another moment of contact. At the parents' evening the teacher informs the parent and at the interviews the parent informs the teacher about his/her child. Great that many parents have already signed up for this. At this talk, you as a parent are mainly the one speaking and can tell the teacher everything it needs to know about your child. For the parents who have not yet signed up. Please do!

New colleagues introducing themselves

Miss Ragnild joined our team in the first week of school. She is the new internal supervisor for groups 5 to 8. We were looking for her, because Miss Marga is now teaching group 7 for four days. Miss Ragnild introduces herself below:

My name is Ragnild Stephenson and I am married to Fred. We have two daughters. In my spare time I enjoy reading, hiking in nature and running. I enjoy running because I can put my experiences of the day into perspective and it makes me feel healthier. I started in education as a teacher because I wanted to contribute to the future of our children by teaching them knowledge, inspiring and guiding them. To gain more knowledge and information in guiding and supporting parents in parenting, I studied pedagogy. After my Master Educational Needs degree, I started working as an internal supervisor. As an internal supervisor, together with my colleagues, I am responsible for the support and guidance in the field of education, student care and educational quality. Furthermore, I am a point of contact for parents, teachers and external parties regarding the needs and/or extra support of the children at school. I am looking forward to it and to getting to know you all.

We also have a new first point of contact as Parent Child Advisor (OKA) at our school. She too will introduce herself to you:

My name is Margaret Mulder and I work as a parent and child counselor with the Parent and Child Team at Bijlmer Center. From October 2024 I will be working at the Cloverleaf. Bartelien Meinders was the parent and child advisor before this. I will be present on Monday and/or Thursday mornings.

Many of you remember me from a few years ago, when I worked as a teaching assistant at Voorschool Kofi ne Ama. I really enjoy being at the Cloverleaf more often! As a parent you can come to me with all your questions about parenting. Also if you just want to spar or need someone to think with. For example when your child is not sleeping well, your child is on the iPad a lot, does not listen well or when you notice that your children often quarrel among themselves. I try to be present early so you can also talk to me when you bring your child to school. I look forward to meeting you as parents (again).

Pak je Kans-arrangement!

The Pak je Kans-arrangement of the City of Amsterdam offers financial support to low-income families to support children in their development. Think of contributions for school trips, sports activities, school supplies or a laptop. The goal is to give all children equal opportunities, regardless of their home situation. Income standards have been raised. As a result, more parents can apply for arrangement for their children up to age 18. For more information or help applying, please contact juf Bo Ra Kim (b.kim@bsklaverblad.nl). She will be happy to help you. Mediators

At Cloverleaf, we work with student mediators. This is an important part of our Peaceful School lessons. The children learn what conflict is, how it can come about and, most importantly, how to resolve it. All students learn this. The student mediators are students from grades 6 through 8. They support children during breaks when there is a conflict.

Soon new mediators from groups 6 will be trained so that the team is complete again. Miss Ragnild will take care of this together with Miss Lilian.

Previously, Miss Carlien was involved in this. Unfortunately, she has been out for a long time. It is very nice to see how the student mediators themselves kept things going last year and also started it up again this year. That is worth a big compliment and demonstrates taking responsibility for tasks they have been given within the school. Before the fall break, we hope that the team will be fully replenished. We will keep you informed!
